About Us

Georgia Tech
Undergraduate Consulting Club

Who are we?

Founded in the 1970s, Georgia Tech Undergraduate Consulting Club established a community of talented students and created a network to help students enter prestigious consulting firms. The three pillars of our organization: networking, case preparation, and pro bono projects, propel our success.

Our mission

As the Georgia Tech Undergraduate Consulting Club, we are dedicated to providing a platform for students passionate about consulting. We aim to create a space that eases the recruitment process, provides an outlet to connect with like-minded individuals, and prepares our members for their future careers.

What we do

Over the years, we have developed strong relationships with top consulting firms. Throughout the semester, GT UCC hosts networking opportunities to create direct and exclusive access between our corporate sponsors and members. Our executive team collaborates with recruiters to plan events that align with the needs of the firms and students. Our networking events include informational sessions, lunch & learns, site visits, and coffee chats.

Our members have access to curated interview preparation materials, resume workshops, and case workshops. We invite our corporate sponsors to provide industry experience and to better understand our talented members by participating in case workshops. Our case workshops allow students to develop their skillset and receive constructive and actionable feedback.

By providing students an opportunity to become involved in hands-on pro bono projects, members of UCC can gain relevant consulting experience.
